

Parking Lot Ice:

These are images I shot this morning of frozen patterns in the ice on our parking. When I got home this afternoon they had melted and were gone.

Where did they come from?

This is a picture I took while on my hike this morning.

Sure looks like the patterns in the parking lot ice! Is there some connection? I know the mechanisms are completely different but they are producing similar patterns!